release. The Press release has already been made public.

The second point relates to disclosing or making available these papers to the Parliament. This regrettably I can't do, because I am under an obligation with the Government of Switzerland. It is a treaty obligation that these douments are meant to be used only for the purpose intended, that political vendetta of any kind is not part of the purpose, that due process in a court of law is the only part. On an earlier occasion, when a similar demand had been made, we had referred this matter to the Federal Government of Switzerland and the advice that we received was that disclosing these documents anywhere other than in a court of law would amount to political utilisation of the thing. 1 am sure the hon. Members, therefore, understand that the Government will not take such a stand.

Thirdly, there was a request that the Government should come forward with a status paper on what is being done. As the hon. Members know, the Ministry of External Affairs does not deal with it. But I feel the appropriate Ministry will come forward and, no doubt, if the occasion arises, the Government will brief the Parliament on the exact standing.

Finally, in addition to this, though I believe the concerned Ministry will inform the House-it is not simply the final set of papers that we have received from Switzerland-some additional information has been obtained by the Government by receipt of papers from Luxembourg also and they too will be utilised in the due process of law.
